MORAL OF THE STORY

Appearances are deceptive
One good turn deserves another
It is best to prepare for the days of necessity
He that finds discontentment in one place is not likely to find happiness in another
A man is known by the company he keeps Fine clothes may disguise, but silly words will disclose a fool * Never trust your enemy
-Revenge will hurt the avenger-
He that is neither one thing nor the other has no friends
Misfortune tests the sincerity of friends
Evil wishes, like chickens, come home to roost
Evil tendencies are shown in early life
Do not attempt too much at once
-One man's pleasure may be another's pain-Whatever you do, do with all your might Nature exceeds nurture Necessity is the mother of invention
Little by little does the trick
Not everything you see is what it appears to be No one can be a friend if you know not whether to trust or distrust him People often grudge others what they cannot enjoy themselves
It is easy to kick a man that is down
Better starve free than be a fat slave
Little friends may prove great friends
We often give our enemies the means for our own destruction
Do unto others as you would have them do unto you Gossips are to be seen and not heard
